MOTORCITY ANNOUNCES NEW VP OF HOTEL OPERATIONS, UNVEILS MODEL HOTEL ROOM

On Monday, Detroit's MotorCity Casino announced that Asaad Farag, an international hospitality industry veteran, had been named vice president of hotel operations for its new casino hotel.

In a press release issued by MotorCity, Chief Operating Officer Rhonda Cohen said Asaad, "brings enormous value to the MotorCity team."

"His expansive high-end U.S. and international hotel background is critical to our mission of creating a luxury hotel that offers unparalleled guest service. He has historically demonstrated his ability to assess the needs of his guests and to exceed their expectations, which is consistent with our edict to raise the bar on hospitality in the City of Detroit and across the region."

Farag's responsibilities will include all aspects of MotorCity's hotel operations including the spa, retail, catering and conference sales. He brings more than 20 years of hotel management experience and has managed such properties as the Regent Wall Street Hotel & Spa in New York City and the St. Regis Hotel in Los Angeles.

Currently, MotorCity is undergoing a $275 million renovation of its current site. The project includes the addition of the new 17-story, 400-room hotel tower, expansion of the gaming space, a premium spa, convention and banquet space, a 1,200-seat theater, additional parking, and new retail and dining options.

Last week, MotorCity unveiled a model hotel room for its new hotel tower scheduled to open later this fall. The hotel rooms, including 41 suites, will feature amenities such as luxury bedding, a pillow library, marble bathrooms with separate soaking tubs and showers, and customized climate control systems. Work stations, iPod docking stations, conference phones and plasma televisions will also be included.

CASINO WINDSOR UPDATE: CONSTRUCTION ON TRACK FOR SPRING 2008 COMPLETION

The major renovations to Casino Windsor's existing facility were complete in June with the opening of Neros gourmet steakhouse. The additional expansion plans are nearing completion with the entire project expected to be finished in spring 2008.

The current hotel tower is in the process of being renovated floor by floor. According to Casino Windsor Communications and Community Affairs Director Holly Ward, the décor will feature a "chick, modern hotel look." Rooms will include new bedding, linens and furniture, as well as new widescreen televisions.

Ward said 20 of the hotel's 34 stories have already been poured, with a new floor being poured approximately every seven days. Once completed, the new hotel will have 369 rooms and suites, in addition to the 389 rooms included in the casino's four-diamond hotel.

Construction is also moving forward on the complex's new convention center and entertainment theater.
